CHRUSP program of work

- 5 areas of activity – planned, needed, ambitious
 - Build consensus around interpretation
 - Law reform
 - Monitoring and enforcement
 - Education and awareness-raising
 - Extending the analysis
- 3 geographical dimensions – global, local, (regional), international cooperation
- Programmatic work – advocacy (furthering theory and practice), capacity-building,

Shadow reporting

- Clear and succinct description of relevant law, policy, program, impact and harm
- First person testimonies – succinct, powerful
- Evidence of harm – research and other background
- In-person meetings with experts, provide requested information, tailor arguments
- Legal clarity and certainty about positions
- Language presented, points repeated, keep it simple

Law reform

- Confidence of government
- Civil society leaders with clear strategies and understanding of the CRPD and its principles
- Creative solutions to build consensus
- Disability movement coalition with integrated platform and mutual solidarity

Litigation and individual cases

- Multi-level program – in country courts, regional court/commission, CRPD optional protocol, UN special procedures
- Principles and pragmatism: drawing the line in accordance with CRPD, what would that mean?

Integrated advocacy program

- Litigation in country, public awareness-raising/media, complaints CRPD OP – Documenta Mexico (abolition of inimputabilidad)
- Advocacy for law reform, shadow reporting to all available mechanisms, peer advocacy, support for alternatives, pro bono litigation project – Hege Orefellen with WSO and ICJ-Norway (abolition of commitment/forced treatment)
- Two-stage law reform, commitment to follow Article 12 and set up reform commission, study of GC1 and production of compliant proposal – Alberto Vasquez with SODIS Peru
- University conducts civil society consultation to create law reform, bring together stakeholders and address challenges – Amita Dhanda with NALSAR India (legal capacity)
 - Note limitations of accepting inferior standard on Art 14 while promoting Art 12 compliance; also activists with psychosocial disabilities rejected compromise made on Art 12
